Would you like to follow your true inner guidance, but often can't tell which voice is really yours? It may seem that just as one voice encourages you to take the leap, another warns you of all the horrible things that could happen, if you do. And, just when you think that you've finally made up your mind, something nags at you from the backseat of your mind to reconsider.

Taking a big next step in your life - or even just making what should be a simple decision - may feel like a major ordeal at times, especially in this age of so much conflicting information, continuous media input, and sensory overload. Whom or what are you to listen to, if you hope to successfully navigate through your life? How can you tell if you are hearing one of your devoted spirit guides or guardian angels, getting bombarded by other people's thoughts, being psychically manipulated, or tuned in to your own inner voice?

If that's not enough to confuse you and make you distrust your own knowingness, how can you tell, if the information you are getting is true or correct for you? Can you have certainty that you are accessing your spirit-based truth or are you becoming the unwitting victim of your cunning ego?

Join beloved spiritual teacher, clairvoyant visionary, author, and radio show host, Michael J Tamura, for an incomparable, joy-filled weekend to develop your innate intuition, clairvoyance, and mediumship and further your spiritual growth. Discover the various avenues of communication you already have within you to access your own truth and all the information you need to live your life and fulfill your true purpose.
