Dear Friends and Awakening Souls,

I hope that this note finds you each healthy and happy, and living your life joyfully, the way you deserve to live it. If, however, you find yourself faced with one or more of the challenges that life tends to offer us from time to time, I pray that God's Grace gives you everything that you need to live, learn, and grow through them at peace with yourself. We are living amidst a great transformation. The world at times may seem to have gone mad. Old structures many have depended upon for so long are crumbling to make way for a healthier future, not just for a select few, but for all of us. During this time, we may often discover that what we believed was true yesterday may turn out to be fiction today. Such is the nature of waking up.

Waking up to a higher level of consciousness is at the base of all the major changes happening in the world - and in our personal lives - now. The collective consciousness of humanity is breaking itself free from the gravity of materialism and launching itself into the illuminating awareness of Spirit. The world is experiencing a healing crisis of historic proportions. It is not any different than a personal healing crisis that we may go through, when we commit to our well-being and begin to change the way we live. For example, if you committed yourself to change your diet from that of eating mostly junk food to one consisting of organic homemade meals, you may experience your body going through a period of natural detoxification. During such a purification process, you may feel tired, have minor headaches, and even manifest symptoms of being ill. Yet, if those conditions are a part of a natural cleansing process, trying to control or stop them with medication and drastic treatments, you would only be interrupting your continued healing. In such cases, the "cure" would definitely be worse than letting the conditions run their course.

During a healing crisis, what you need most to see you through it to your better health and well-being is for you to reassess how you have been habitually relating to yourself. You would have to learn to gently and lovingly support yourself into being as you truly are. It is the time for you to help yourself transition from having been the caterpillar into the butterfly that you are meant to be. It is not the time to forcefully demand of yourself to fix yourself "back to the way you were". It is time to take your leap of faith into creating the life that you are meant to live.

The life that you are deserving of and meant to live is the life of spirit. You are an immortal soul, a limitless and eternal spiritual being. That also means that you are totally and always powerfully creative. So, living your life of being spirit here in this world requires that you create what you envision for your life. You are not meant to force yourself into subservience or into a square peg. You are here on earth to express your innermost creativity in every way as the soul that you truly are.

To help you get going more on that joyful adventure, we decided to offer you a stay-at-home version of what I was going to teach in our annual Vermont Seminar Weekend in September. Due to the health and safety concerns during this on-going pandemic, we decided to transform our on-location weekend event into a special 4-TeleClass Remote event. That way, you can call in on your phone and learn in the comfort and safety of your own home or wherever you feel most at home. We'll also offer an added bonus of a free Online Post-TeleClass Q&A, Talk-Story and Social via Zoom VideoConferencing to anyone who joins us for any of the teleclasses during this weekend event. And, since this weekend event was planned for Vermont, we decided to give the teleclasses during this event at more East Coast-friendly times.

We've created what we hope you will find to be an inspiring, illuminating, and joy-filled set of four 2-hour teleclasses. The entire set of four teleclasses will make for a comprehensive weekend seminar, but you are welcomed to join us for any or all of them as you'd like. As always, within a week or two of the weekend, each participant will receive the link/s to a professionally mastered mp3 audio download of whichever class you attended/purchased, so that you can review the classes as much as you'd like.

Below, you'll find the individual titles and a brief description for each of the teleclasses. We invite you to join us to learn to Wake-Up to Spirit, Kick-Start Your Creativity, Have What You Love in Your Life, and Create Everything You Need to Live a Joy-Filled Life!

We're looking forward to seeing you then!

With appreciation, love, and celebration of life,

Michael
